3. Structure of the Board

The Board shall comprise at least three directors and it is intended that the Board should, to the extent practicable given the size and composition of the Board from time to time, be comprised of a majority of independent directors. The Board aims to comprise directors with a broad range of skills, expertise, and experience from a diverse range of backgrounds that is appropriate to the Company and its strategy.

The Board, together with the Remuneration and Nomination Committee, will review the skills required by the business and represented by Directors on the Board. Together they will determine whether the composition and mix of those skills remain appropriate for the Company's strategy, subject to limits imposed by the Constitution.

The Board may at any time appoint a person to be a director of the Company either to fill a casual vacancy or as an addition to the existing directors in accordance with the Company's Constitution.

4. Independent Directors

The Board only considers directors to be independent where they are independent of management and free of any interest, position, association, business or other relationship that could materially interfere with, or could reasonably be perceived to influence, the exercise of their unfettered and independent judgment in respect of issues before the board and/or acting in the best interests of the Company.

The Board has adopted a definition of independence that is based on that set out in Box 2.3 of the ASX Corporate Governance Principles and Recommendations (4th edition).

An "independent" director is a non-executive director who:

- within the last two years, has not been employed in an executive capacity by the Company or any of its subsidiaries, or been a director after ceasing to hold any such employment;
- does not receive performance-based remuneration (including options or performance rights) from, or participate in an employee incentive scheme of the Company;
- within the last three years has not been in a material business relationship (eg. a material supplier, professional advisor, consultant or customer) with the Company or any of its subsidiaries, or an officer of, or otherwise associated with, someone with such a relationship;
- within the last two years has not been a substantial holder of the Company or represent or be an officer or employee of, or professional adviser to a substantial holder;
- does not have close family ties with any person who falls within any of the categories described above; or
- has not served on the Board for such a period that their independence from management and substantial holder may have been compromised.

The Board should regularly assess whether each non-executive director is independent. That assessment should be made at least annually at or around the time that the Board or Remuneration and Nomination Committee considers candidates for election or re-election to the Board. Each non-executive director should provide to the Board all information that may be relevant to this assessment. If a director's independent status changes, this should be disclosed and explained to the market in a timely manner.

Materiality

In each case, the materiality of the interest, position or relationship needs to be assessed by the Board to determine whether it might interfere, or might reasonably be seen to interfere, with the Director's capacity to bring an independent judgement to bear on issues before the board and to act in the best interests of the entity as a whole rather than in the interests of an individual security holder or other party.

The Board will consider the materiality of the directors' interests, position, association or relationship for the purposes of determining 'independence' on a case by case basis, having regard to both quantitative and qualitative principles.

5. Directors' Responsibilities

Each director of the Company is bound by the Company's charters and policies, including:

- Securities Trading Policy;
- Continuous Disclosure Policy;

- act in accordance with this Board Charter and disclose to the Board any actual or perceived conflicts of interest, whether of a direct or indirect nature, of which the director becomes aware and which the director reasonably believes is material, in that it may or may be perceived to influence his vote or compromise the reputation or performance of the Company; and position of director.

The Company recognises that it is important that the Chair has a defined role in the organisation and operates in accordance with clear functional lines.

- the CFO and Company Secretary may communicate on behalf of the Company in accordance with the Shareholder Communication Policy;
- any disclosure of information to a shareholder must be in accordance with the Continuous Disclosure Policy and must comply with the ASX Listing Rules; and
- all directors are required to keep all information provided to them in their capacity as a director confidential, unless it is required by law or by the ASX Listing Rules.

10. Conflicts of Interest

The directors of the Company are required to act in a manner which is consistent with the best interests of the Company as a whole, free of any actual or possible conflicts of interest.

If a director considers that they might be in a position where there is a reasonable possibility of conflict between their personal or business interests, the interests of any associated person, or their duties to any other company, on the one hand, and the interests of the Company or their duties to the Company, on the other hand, the director must:

- fully and frankly inform the Board about the circumstances giving rise to the possible or actual conflict;
- if requested by the Board, within seven days or such further period as may be permitted by the Board, take such steps necessary and reasonable to remove any conflict of interest; and
- abstain from voting on any motion relating to the matter and absent themselves from all board deliberations relating to the matter, including receipt of Board papers bearing on the matter.

If a director believes that they may have a conflict of interest or duty in relation to a particular matter, the director should immediately consult with the Chair (or, in the case of the Chair, the Chair should immediately consult with the other non-executive directors).

Meetings of the Board may be held or participated in by conference call or similar means. Resolutions of the Board may be passed by circular resolution or in writing in accordance with the Company's Constitution.

The Chair should ensure the availability and, if necessary, the attendance at the relevant meeting, of any member of the Company's executive management responsible for a matter included as an agenda item at the relevant meeting.
